

BUSINESS

Starbucks customers are not happy about the company's new rewards...

These photos of a Walmart store on its last day are haunting via whatnowatlanta.com Atlanta employment center to add, classroom, computer lab, office...

breakfast LIKE NO OTHER GET RECIPES

Kelly Yamanouchi The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

Mustard Seed BBQ among local restaurants at Hartsfield-Jackson

f t + COMMENT

3:40 p.m. Thursday, May 21, 2015 | Filed in: Business

my

Gracie: Making prison visits family-friendly

Free access to myAJC for AJC subscribers.

EXPLORE

SIGN UP FOR NEWSLETTERS

Want more news? Sign up for free newsletters to get more of the AJC delivered to your inbox.

Bertram McCray started selling ribs on the side of the road with a grill and a tent, and has now opened an outpost of his Mustard Seed BBQ at Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport.

SIGN UP FOR NEW AJC ATLANTA AIR TRAVEL NEWSLETTER!

McCray has two Mustard Seed BBQ spots in Atlanta, a Cascade location on Westmont Road and a West End location on Metropolitan Parkway.

He was approached by concessionaire Delaware North to open a version of Mustard Seed BBQ at the airport. Airport and concessions officials gathered Thursday to mark the arrival of the new restaurant, open since late February on Concourse D with a smoker in the kitchen.

Mustard Seed BBQ at Hartsfield-Jackson

After learning to barbecue in his mother's backyard and setting up shop roadside, "Never did I ever imagine that I'd be in the busiest airport in the world," McCray said. "It's finally paid off."

VIEW COMMENTS 2

FASHION MUST-HAV Fashion Gifts for the accessory lover

Bill Gates: 'Bjindsided' By Reports I Back FBI on Apple Bloomberg

More videos:

MOST READ

- 1. FBI: Ill-gotten $20M funds, mansions and gambl
2. Alpharetta teacher accused: secretly videotaping teen
3. Photos: Walmart in Bedford Ohio on its last day of business